MODERATOR'S MOMENT

"LOVE IS STILL THE WAY"

"Thanks-Living"

"Encourage one another and build one another up, just as you are doing. Rejoice always, pray constantly, give thanks in all circumstances, for this is the will of God in Christ for you." (1 Thessalonians 5:13 & 16-18)

Living with gratitude, no matter what is happening in the world around us or in our own lives, takes a giant step of faith in God!

As we recently saw in the news, many families in the Carolinas, in Florida, and in other parts of the world are left clinging to each other, barely alive, amidst the destruction of their homes and all their personal treasures by hurricanes and earthquakes. And yet, they often speak of cherishing life even more deeply after living through these experiences. Or the terrible shock for Pastor Rebecca's family on hearing the news of a life threatening illness for her sister's husband Ed. I know there are others who are also dealing with the loss of loved ones or friends or have received difficult news about their own health. After the tears, the questioning, the disbelief, we often are given strength by turning to those core values and beliefs that have guided/undergirded our lives for years.

But what if we have no faith, no cherishing of life, no core strengths to fall back on—where then can we turn? Our Christian faith in God gives us an anchor! The underlying care of God is there even when we don't know how to ask for it, even when we haven't prayed for a long time—we are not alone. There is a life force that undergirds us! We can practice gratitude everyday by finding something to be grateful for.

I have found that most people like stability more than they like change. Many of us do not have the resilience that we observe in a rubber band, the ability to regain or pop back to our original shape when we are stretched or pulled in a new direction. I have had a rubber band break when I stretched it too far, or sometimes the rubber band had gotten too old and had lost its flexibility— the resilience was gone. I would like to apply this metaphor to the changes being proposed for carrying on the mission and ministry of our church. The proposed changes for consideration by the whole congregation on November 11th have to do with language and purpose, numbers of persons serving on the proposed Teams, which is a new term being applied to our current Boards, and the type of affiliations persons have with the church. These changes are being made on a trial basis for one year and will be evaluated in late 2019. If you have questions or concerns, please talk with me, Pastor Rebecca, Bill Waldorf, or Task Force members—we will meet with you.

As you gather with your loved ones this Thanksgiving, or anytime you get together with friends and family, take a few minutes to share with one another those things in your life that you are grateful for. They may bring unexpected blessings by sharing them and they may lead to "Thanks-Living."

In gratitude and thankfulness for each one of you, Marjorie Erickson, Moderator

PASTOR'S ARTICLE, November, 2018

"What is the healing and transformation needed not only "out there," but inside ourselves, as well? (Question posed by "Traces of the Trade")

Happy November! So excited to see the 92nd Annual Bazaar coming together next week! Definitely a highlight of the year here at CUCC. Thanks to all who are working so hard, and truly work and prepare all year long.

Following the Bazaar, on Nov. 11th, we have an exciting opportunity to learn about our own history in this country and what it means to love our neighbor near and far. Please join us!

SUNDAY, November 11th at 4:00 pm "Traces of the Trade" Feature Film and Discussion Refreshments After

Friends of mine, Bill Peebles and Holly Fulton, discovered a family journey and life-calling when they learned that Holly and several cousins were descendants of the largest slave-trading family in US history. Ten cousins got together for a month with their cousin Katrina, a filmmaker, and traced the journey and learned of the lives and fates of slaves from Africa at a dark time in our nation's history. They have turned this dark and difficult learning into a passionate calling to healing and education that is very needed in our times. We are partnering with the Collegiate Peaks Forum Series to bring this important event to our area and urge you to invite your friends!

About the film:

In "Traces of the Trade", Producer/Director Katrina Browne tells the story of her forefathers, the largest slave-trading family in U.S. history. The film follows ten DeWolf descendants as they retrace the steps of the Triangle Trade. Back home, the family confronts the thorny topic of what to do now. In the context of growing calls for reparations for slavery, family members struggle with the question of how to think about and contribute to "repair." Meanwhile, Browne and her family come closer to the core: their love/hate relationship with their own Yankee culture and privileges; the healing and transformation needed not only "out there," but inside themselves.

The issues the DeWolf descendants are confronted with dramatize questions that apply to the nation as a whole: What, concretely, is the legacy of slavery?—What history do we inherit as individuals and as citizens? How does Northern complicity change the equation? What would repair—spiritual and material—really look like and what would it take?

About the presenters:

Holly Fulton has been a diversity trainer, interpersonal skills workshop facilitator, performer, and high school teacher. She has served on the board of a national non-profit called "Coming to the Table," which holds actions and projects all over the U.S. that bring together descendants of slaves and slave owners for inter-racial healing processes.

William (Bill) M. Peebles, M.Div, MA. Bill has been a Presbyterian Pastor and a Psychotherapist. Issues of Justice and Mercy have been a part of his life from early adulthood. He works alongside Holly to bring awareness of the legacy of slavery and its effects on the current racial wound in our society and the need for healing. Bill is Co-Chair of the Social Justice Ministry of Parkview UCC in Aurora, CO, and is active in 2 Race Dialogue Groups.

Blessings,

Rebecca

Warren's Verse

He can sing a song and use a voice so sweet. Tenor is his range; his sound is hard to beat. He can find a note that adds such harmony, but still climbs the roof to clean the chimney. He can find the time to share a joke or two. When the vultures come, the music gets him through. When you put his age into the family grid, he'll always be

Warren Montgomery's 90th birthday celebration held on September 23 was a sweet success!

Autumn Treasures

Gold pours out of mountain cracks and spills down to my door.
My eyes try hard to hold it back to share with our October guests but overpowered by its glare, I rake it up with avarice and in my private counting tower glory in my glowing autumn hoard.

As aspen shades grow pale de-colorized by early snows, I look to well-dressed Yale. That mountain grows so stout on autumn gorge her seams burst out. Cottonwood-lined streams she hid well in summer folds now streak a tell-tale orange down her faded skirt of gold.

Cottonwoods now dim their lights and winter settles in with all its forty shades of whites. The Eskimos have word for them but I am left expressionless, bereft of language to describe the subtle, textured, weightless mass clinging to a yucca spire.

Mission and Ministry News November greetings from the M&M Team!

The M&M Board met on October 9 to plan our focus for the remainder of 2018.

M&M thanks you so much for your contributions to Neighbors in Need, the 4th of the 5for5 programs of the UCC. We did good!

Our BackPack Program: Ken Rehborn was ecstatic that slight changes made last month were 100% well received by the families! The reusable cloth bags as "backpacks" are better for the environment and help us monitor participation in the program. Forty-nine of 50 packs distributed in early October were returned for refilling for the next week (one child did not reply due to illness).

As suggested last month, we decided to offer the International Heifer Project as an international outreach for the Christmas season. A special holiday church luncheon is planned for December 9 to present the program! Watch for details in the Sunday bulletins.

We want to finish the year with good support for our sponsored Philippino child Angelo Abellano. We are preparing a special greeting card – which you can sign! – and financial gift to him and his family for the holidays to inspire him for the rest of the school year. If you would like to donate, we must send the greetings by mid-November to arrive there by the holidays.

Bless your support, and what we do and what we think!

Helen Duncan and Ron Rak.

"The Unbroken Circle"

When I asked one resident here at Brookedale how she felt that first day she moved into her little apartment, she threw her head back and laughed, "Jean," she answered,

"I laugh now, but then it wasn't one bit funny. My family took my cat from me, put my condo up for sale, and literally brought me here and left. It was weeks before they had time to come again."

Knowing the extreme importance of the family and friends coming often to visit the resident, I started off this interview by completely forgetting my professional air and said, "Holy good grief, that is horrible! Who helped you get settled and take you to buy stuff you needed?"

No longer laughing she said, "Nobody. And they still don't come hardly ever. The girls who work here always help me."

I purposely chose next to talk with a man who has been living here for about six years and whose daughter still visits him several times a week. Anything that man needs or wants, she gets it, including decorating his front door to match the season. Thankfully, for the most part the residents here at Brookedale have family and friends who are faithful visitors.

Personally, I don't have the faintest idea what I would do if my family didn't come to visit, shopped for my needs, called me every single day, and listened to me when I vent about feeling bad or when I'm just discouraged about getting old when I had no intention to do it. But they do listen and they let me cry.

As I started to think about all of this, one of my beliefs kept coming back to me. Remember when I wrote about my seeing life as a circle? My Native American friend, Coyote, explained to me that we begin life completely dependent and naked. Our family takes care of us as we begin to grow and learn to be independent. We start on life's circle right then.

During this life's circle, we make friends, we're educated, buy and collect things. When we reach middle age, things begin to change and by the three-quarters mark in the circle, we begin going down hill physically and mentally. Because of this, we start to need other people more. Then comes the day the help of others is just not pleasant, but necessary.

And that is when families start investigating Assisted Living facilities. In other words, the more we weaken for any number of reasons, the more care we must have and for the most part families are way to busy with their own children to bring us into their homes. We don't expect you to.

So they research, find the best place, and here's where problems can begin. Why? It's because the loved ones who put us there don't understand that their part in all of this is not over just because their loved one has a room or little apartment and is fed and cared for.

I cannot stress enough that at the very time all of this life changing takes place is the very time you are needed like never before. You are the very connection we have with the world. We don't usually drive by then, are dependent on walkers, canes or wheel chairs, and without you, we have no independence. You are our connection. We are then on that last part of the circle.

The subject of our own mortality becomes more real at this time because it's all around us. It is a difficult stage of everyone's life and no one should feel alone as necessary decisions are made. I know that the older I get, the more I need the love of family and friends.

Sure, certain decisions should be made, but more importantly, to me, are the sweet times spent remembering together with loved ones things that happened in my life and in theirs. I cherish the gift of time that loved ones choose to give me and I can assure you that we all feel this way.

Did you know that most of us old folks feel like a burden to our families? We truly do not like to ask you, our family, to do things for us and wish more than anything we could take care of ourselves. If you can be there for us without making us feel a burden, you are giving us a true love gift.

As I continued asking our residents about having their loved ones stay close, one lady said, "Actually, once I started raising my four kids, I don't think I ever felt lonely. Guess I was too busy. But I found out how lonely really feels as I got old." She smiled broadly and as she turned away from me, she told me she had a wonderful daughter who comes and sits and eats with her a lot and I love to hear this.

Oh my, I can see all sides of this circle now and right in the middle of it is loneliness. What I am trying to stress is that as we age and reach the top of the circle once again, we are as dependent on others just as we were at the start of our journey.

If you are our family or just someone who loves us, stay close to us. Listen to us as we tell you about our life and the people in it and what we did. Maybe you've known us your whole life, so make certain you tell us what our life has meant to you. Tell us you love us. May the circle be unbroken.

The view from the mountain is wondrous.

CUCC Council Minutes October 17, 2018

Present: Marge Erickson, Rebecca Kemper Poos, Ron Erickson, Helen Duncan, Barb Groy, Ron Hassell, Betsy Neas, Ron Rak, Bill Waldorf, Arlene Waldorf. Marge Erickson called the meeting to order, opening with a prayer of encouragement, support and hope.

Calendar Review: A review of upcoming events on the church calendar was noted on the Meeting Agenda. Helen suggested that the Pastoral Relations Committee meeting be added, with a proposed date of Nov. 15. A Stewardship Committee meeting was also tentatively added, with date to-be-determined.

General Business and Reports

Minutes from the September 19 Council Meeting were reviewed and approved as written (Helen/Arlene motion to accept).

Clerk's Report: Ron R. noted an email message from VirJeanne Williams that Ada Morrison passed on October 4, and her son Jerry is planning a service at the Johnson Village VFW on October 27. Rebecca noted that Jean Lowe (member inactive) passed on this morning, Oct. 17, in Pennsylvania.

Moderator's Report: Marge reminded the Council members of the upcoming Congregational Meeting following worship on Sun., Nov. 11. She asked Bill Waldorf to review for the Council the planned Task Force Report which has been circulated to the Congregation and will be presented by Bill and Merilee on the 11th. Upon the approval of the Congregation, directions will be given to the Nominating Committee for the recruitment of persons to serve for the year 2019. The election will be held at the Annual Meeting the end of January 2019. Also, if the church restructuring is successful after one year, final changes will have to be made before the end of 2019. Final approval will require Congregation approval.

Pastoral Relations Committee: A Pastoral Relations Committee has been formed in consultation between the Moderator and Pastor. The members are as follows: Helen Duncan, Chair; Mark Wolters, Judy Hassell, Bob Frykholm, and the Moderator. In discussion, it was agreed that the committee should remain small to provide privacy, confidentiality, and limit social pressure on the Pastor. Further discussion touched on the continued work to establish a Personnel Committee. This work was begun last year by Arlene Waldorf and will be continued under her leadership at a later date. It was thought that the two committees should be comprised of different members.

Treasurer's Report: The September 30 financial report showed that general contributions year-to-date were only $8,434.19 under budget. No concerns were expressed about the budget.

Pastor's Report: Rebecca noted that she would travel to Portland for a seminar and visit with family. The $35,000 from the Lilly Grant for the 2019 Pastor Sabbatical was received. The sound system has been upgraded, improved, and simplified.

Upcoming events to note: Traces of the Trade presentation at the church November 11, 4:00pm in collaboration with the Collegiate Peaks Forum Series. Author John Pavlovitz will speak on his recent book "A Bigger Table" as part of the Collegiate Peaks Forum Series in May, 2019. He will also speak at Parkhill UCC in Denver.

Continuing Business

Window Replacement Project: Ron Hassell reported that the Trustees have started preliminary planning for the project. A committee is being formed to work on the window project per Council direction.

New Business

Nominating Committee for 2019: Arlene Waldorf has been asked by the Moderator to Chair the Nominating Committee for next year's Officers and Committee Members. Arlene is actively soliciting committee volunteers by word of mouth and through email notification.

Reports of Boards, Affiliated Organizations, Committees

Trustees: Ron reported that the Trustees meeting in early October considered employee salaries, raises, and committee budgets for 2019. They planned to meet again in October to continue the discussions. There was brief review of current repairs. Improvements are being planned for the men's rest room which is close to the Narthex and entry to the church. A donor has offered to pay for two new toilets: one for this men's room and one for the lady's room in another part of the building. Our "thanks" for this improvement.

Christian Education: Arlene and Ron E. reported the current emphasis was on Children's Church operation during the Sunday services, with continuing rotating of available personnel. Arlene said the recent Bible exploration at Sunday school went "pretty well" considering the age span of the children. Arlene has planned out some lessons from "Seasons of the Spirit" for rotating teachers in the upcoming weeks. Janet Steiner is organizing a Christmas Program planned for December 16, theme to be determined. Ron reported that the men's group is continuing study of the book "Original Goodness" by Eknath Easwaran and the Sunday Adult Study is successfully continuing with N.T. Wright's 2018 book "Paul: A Biography," with the help of several substitute teachers.

Diaconate: Barb Groy noted that Matthew Maloney had filled in for Doyle at the sound board for the last two Sundays. Board emphasis is on the upcoming Hanging of the Greens on November 28 and December 2nd. The church roll review was completed, but the list needed to be coordinated with the church computer. She also mentioned the recent very-well-received 90th birthday celebrations.

Mission and Ministry: Helen said the current focuses are: 1. Contributing to Global Ministries support of our sponsored child Angelo Abellano; 2. Heifer International Project for a December program to include a catered luncheon on December 9, an inspirational presentation, and receiving contributions. Les Messamer could share about his experience at the startup of the Heifer Program in the mid-1940's.

Reaching the Pastor

If I'm not at the church, I might be out visiting, at a meeting or writing a sermon.

Leave a message at the office at 719-395-2544, call my cell at 719-252-6890, or email me at revbecca@icloud.com.

Next time you walk from the sanctuary to Fellowship Hall, take a moment to look at a couple of items in that hallway.

→ 1. The Lord's Prayer plaque, just beyond the swinging doors, is an incredible scroll saw project. The back label says it was presented in memory of Glen Morrison by his family in 1999. The artist was Carl Pierce, husband of CUCC member Dorothy. If you aren't familiar with scroll saw work, each interior cut has to have a hole drilled. Then the blade must be released from the saw, put through the hole and finally reattached in order to cut that section. That has to happen on every interior cut. I tried to count to estimate how many times that might have happened. I stopped at 50 and had only done a small section. I suggest checking out the possibilities yourself. It's hard to imagine how long it must have taken!

2. High on the opposite side of the hall, near the corner, is a saw. The plaque explains that it was a gift from Harold Robinson to Dwight Smith, building chairman and Charlotte's husband, and was used to cut timbers when the church was built. Bob Smith created the display.
