MODERATOR'S MOMENT

Corona virus disease—2019. In less than two weeks it has changed our lives in ways we can't yet know. All reports in the media indicate that this previously unknown ailment is racing toward us like a freight train, or a tornado, or a tsunami. It makes me think of the story in Mark 4:35-41—you know, the one where Jesus and the disciples were in a boat on the Sea of Galilee when a violent storm came up and the disciples, who were fishermen themselves, were filled with fear for their lives and felt it necessary to wake the sleeping Jesus. He calmly stands up and commands the wind and water to “quiet down,” at which point the sea becomes as smooth as glass. Now that's Power! The story says the disciples were filled with awe.

Storms are part of all of our personal stories. Weather, illnesses, deaths of loved ones, anxiety over what will happen next—fill in the blank. When the calm was restored to the sea again, what did Jesus do? He admonished the disciples, saying “Why are you afraid? Have you no faith?” I prefer to believe that rather than condemning us for lack of faith, Jesus reminds us to respond with faith.

When storms in the form of crises, fear, or panic, to name a few, come into our lives, how do we respond? This story tells me that we are not in control, but a Higher Power—an awesome one. It tells me that we can ask that Power for help. It also asks the question whether or not we respond with faith. And it reminds us that Jesus can calm a storm, like the ones that life constantly throws at us. He gives refuge. When those storms come upon us, who do we trust? Do we respond with faith?

According to the scientists, the coming storm in the form of coronavirus is unpredictable as to the havoc it could wreak upon our physical, emotional, social, and economic lives. There are dire predictions out there. How will we face them? With patience? With calm? With faith? There are those who say “God helps those who help themselves.” Well, here's our chance. We are already not meeting in groups larger than 10, we are maintaining social distance (showing someone you love them by keeping your distance?).

But we can do more. Bob Stocker, our Stewardship/Visioning Team chair, feels that this crisis might well generate a new season of caring for each other, and indeed we are already finding those ways as I write. Together we are helping one another in ways they need to be helped—running an errand to the pharmacy or the grocery, preparing and delivering food (even toilet paper?), shoveling snow if able, checking in with daily telephone calls re: overall wellbeing or needs. We can all get involved! Betsy Neas (966-9894) has some great ideas for connecting with each other.

May God bless us all in this effort of demonstrating our covenant of love and caring.

PASTOR'S ARTICLE, April, 2020

What God Says When Society is Spinning Out of Control

by Jenny Albers

Society: What about my plans?!

God: My plans for you are always better than your own. Don't worry. I'm going to work this all out for your good.

Society: We're not going to get anything done!

God: That's the point. You know how you keep spinning your wheels—always working, moving, doing—but never feeling satisfied? I've given you permission to stop. I've cleared your calendars for you! Your worth isn't tied to busyness or accomplishment. All you have to do is take care of each other.

Society: What does this all mean?

God: It means I'm in control. It means you are human and I am God. It means I've given you a wonderful opportunity to be the light in a dark world. It means you are going to learn to rely on me.

Society: What are we supposed to do when we can't leave our homes?

God: Rest. You are always so busy and overwhelmed, crying out to me weary and exhausted. Can't you use a break from your fast-paced and over-scheduled lives? Go ahead and rest. Pray. Love your families. Be still and spend time with me.

Society: You mean we're supposed to stay home with our kids all day, every day?

God: Yes. And you're going to be just fine. This time together is a rare gift. The rush of daily life has come to a halt.

Play games. Bake cookies. Work on projects you've never had the time for. Teach them kindness and grace. Show them how to endure difficult circumstances and steer them toward me.

Society: We better start hoarding anything we can get our hands on!

God: Prevention, yes. Precaution, yes. Preparedness, yes. But after that, it's time to put the needs of others before your own. When you see someone in need, help them. Offer up what you have. Do not worry about tomorrow! Haven't I always taken care of you? Now, go take care of someone else.

Society: Why is this happening?

God: To remind you that I'm in control. To bring your attention back to me. I'm bringing you together as families and neighbors. I'm showing you patience and perseverance. I'm reminding you of your purpose and priorities. Now is the time to learn and teach your children what this life is really about.

Society: We don't know who to believe.

God: Believe in me. Trust me. Ask me for wisdom and I will surely give it.

Society: We're scared!

God: I've got this and I'm with you.

~Blessings, Rebecca

“MUSH”

There are some things that can just turn me to mush no matter what else is going on all around me.

Years ago during my wildlife work, the St. Louis Zoo called to tell me that a resident coyote died having an usually large litter. All nine pups lived and needed a momma. At the time, we had four wolves with us (see picture) and their care and the copious notes to record all were a full time job, but after only a few minutes thought, I said I would be their momma, so send them on over.

I arranged nine unlidged shoe boxes side by side on a large side table, and when they arrived each pup occupied one box. That was the beginning of a roller coaster ride. They had to be fed warm bottles of a mother milk substitute every three hours. After each feeding they had to be burped . I held them feet down, head up as they nursed, but they were so frantic for the milk they still gulped air, thus the burping. By the time we reached the end of the row it was almost time to begin all over again. But do you know what? I loved it all. It’s the mush thing. They all lived and thrived and all went back to the zoo when they no longer needed warm bottles and mommas. They returned with a little part of me.

Then there was the time one of our Siamese females delivered five kittens. All were fine and healthy but one. The last one born was much smaller and weak and it seemed pretty clear that she wouldn’t make it. Even the momma cat thought this and totally rejected her.

At that time we had a house guest, a wondrous lady named Joy Adamson, the same lady who wrote “Elsa,” “Pippa,” and other books. She championed the cause of the threatened lions of Africa. She traveled around the world to attend the yearly board of director meetings of Tyson Research Center, a board on which I also served. Joy saw this scrawny kitten, picked her up, slipped her into her smock pocket, and named her Elsa. When I looked surprised, she said, “The movement of my body and the closeness and warmth of my pocket will all feel like back in the womb. She will live. We will give her lots of warm milk and keep her rocking gently. You’ll see.”

I turned to mush. Here was this world-famous lady who loved a tiny kitten and gave her life. It touched my heart so much, and every day of Elsa’s long life in our home I remembered that a great human being believed a kitten’s life to be that important. I still believe this today and kept my cat “P’s” life going by using my pocket with him.

Now once again I was mush. We had friends who had sheep that produced baby lambs every spring. Came spring one year and there were lots of precious, soft-furred, doe-eyed lambs, and they each had a momma ewe to feed and nurture them. All except one. When a ewe has triplets, she usually rejects one, mainly because she’s only equipped to nurse two. There is usually one little lamb that suffers rejection. He runs from ewe to ewe, but none want him. In this business, human beings have to substitute. Five times a day someone warms a bottle, picks up the baby, and feeds him. I am the eleven a.m. feeding every day. Automatic mush time for me.

Each day I walked into the field full of mommas and babies and, as I walked among them, they scattered everywhere. Only one didn’t run away. He looked at me, the light must have gone on, and he would break out into a dead run right into my arms. I am mush and his forever. I would pick him up and carry him to a place where I could lean against the fence and hold him while he drinks his warm bottle. First though, he usually found my earlobe and he nursed it vigorously. But when I gave him the real thing he settled right down and hunched inside the crook of my arm. He made soft sucking noises as he filled his little tummy and usually fell asleep when he had finished because he felt contented and loved.

I held him long after I needed to, not so much for him, but for me. I loved the mushy feeling, but finally I had to take him back. I felt bad because I know his momma didn’t want him. I struggle with a strong impulse to just gather that wonderful little being up and take him home with me where he would never feel rejection again. But I walked away knowing not to interfere. I looked forward everyday to my eleven o’clock time with the little lamb. I knew he would run as fast as his little legs would take him straight to me. He knew I had the warm milk that made his tummy feel good. It did not take me long to recognize that he gave me a sense of joy and peace that I called mush.

Mush is the feeling animals so easily give to me. It is the feeling that made me dedicate my whole life to being their voice and their advocate. The view from the mountain is wondrous!

Outreach/Community & World Team News April greetings!

Your Outreach, Community and World Team would like to thank all members and friends, and Grace Church visitors, for their enthusiastic support of the Living Gift Market/Heifer International held on March 11th after the Lenten service. We will be sending over $1,000 worth of goats, rabbits, heifers, honey bees and other “living gifts” to families in poverty who will then gain new income and training. Whole communities will benefit. THANK YOU, THANK YOU.

We thank Janet Steiner for her music leadership and Ellen Kely and Bob Stocker for bringing in their twin goats as special guests. We are always most grateful for the soup makers and bread bakers. BTW, contributions are accepted all year, cash and checks written to CUCC, Heifer Intl. in the memo.

Every April the Outreach Team has organized the Easter SonRise breakfast. Stay tuned as to whether/when it will be held this year.

One Great Hour of Sharing envelopes will be placed in the church pews during April. Please give generously. The Lenten Free Will Offering taken on February 26th will be donated as well.

Ellen Kely and Bob Stocker brought baby goats to the Living Gift Market/Heifer International event on March 11. How does one say no to such cuteness? (Now is that of the goats or Ellen & Bob?)

Coronavirus Consequences: Emergency Appeal!

Dear La Foret Friends:

These are very serious times.

We are asking all of our La Foret friends and donors to make an urgent financial gift to La Foret today.

Coronavirus has affected all of us. The effects of the public response to coronavirus on La Foret have been swift and economically severe. In two days last week, we lost all of our booked business through the end of April. We anticipate these losses will continue through May, and possibly into summer. As you are all aware, almost all of our income comes from these bookings.

Here's what La Foret is doing. We have taken steps to reduce expenses while caring for our staff who have served you and LF so well over many years. We have cut pay by 25% to 50% for all staff with the hope of retaining all of them, and we have eliminated all discretionary spending. Even with this, our monthly expenses are about $60,000 per month for utilities, communications, insurance, and reduced salaries. We can't last long at this rate. We are still planning for summer camps and programs to continue, yet we don't have control.

Your gift today, will help LF handle an uncertain financial future and minimize what we will have to borrow to remain solvent and viable and able to serve you.

We thank you for your gift and support,

Larry McCulloch
Executive Director

Brad Carroll
Asst Executive Director

Terri Schulz
Chair of the Board

General Contributions through February, 2020

FACILITIES TEAM NEWS

Doors project: Awaiting pricing estimates for crash (panic) hardware for the double exit doors. Researching fire inspections to verify if we should be installing crash hardware on the main entrance as well. Estimates for this project are at least $2300 at this point. This project will upgrade the doors to energy efficient doors. No donor has requested a refund of their remaining windows donations, so that money is available to fund this project now. If any funds remain after this project is complete, the balance will be put in the building fund to help fund the staining project of the exterior this year and the LED lighting project.

Heating: Ron Rak is going to install louvers above the doors in the sewing room and old Sunday School office. Also going to ID each of the heating zones and label them so we can better isolate problems when they occur.

Church van and trailer: Both have sold for a total of $8000. The line item in the budget was $3091.25 which has been transferred to Reserves. The Team is requesting the $8000 be put in the building fund so we can start to fund the church exterior staining project this year and continue with the LED lighting upgrades.

LED lighting: Priority for LED upgrades will be kitchen, halls, pulpit area, and fellowship hall. Will be completed in stages as money is available. Will also consider LED upgrades at parsonage if it can be funded.

Respectfully submitted, Ron Hassell, Chair

Sunday morning? Why, yes, I'm free.

from February 2020 Reader's Digest

Thom S. Rainer, the founder of Church Answers, an online community for church leaders, asked ministers and churchgoers alike to share the best excuses they've heard for skipping church:

~I couldn't get the lid off the peanut butter.

~The church is too close to drive and too far to walk.

~Both of my girlfriends attend church there.

~The pastor stays in the Bible too much.

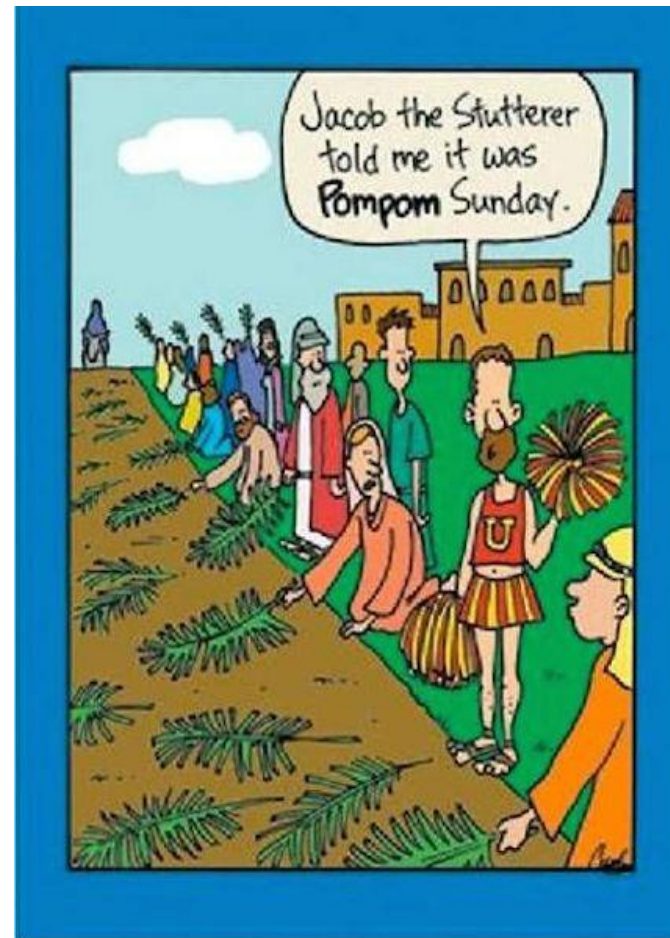

~The pastor is too attractive. When I see him preaching, I have impure thoughts and I'm distracted.

~My wife cooked bacon for breakfast, and our entire family smelled like bacon.

~The worship leader pulls up his pants too often. It's distracting.

~I always get hemorrhoids on Sundays.

PLUG INTO THE LIFE OF THE CHURCH

ALL CHILDREN PRESCHOOL - 5TH GRADE ARE INVITED TO CHILDREN'S CHURCH

Will resume when services do.

Come meet the characters in Deep Blue, learn new songs and have fun with craft projects!

Come to worship at 10 am, join in the Children's Message in church, and then follow your teacher to the Art Room.

DELEGATES SOUGHT

Ron & Linda Rak are going on year three as Co- and Primary Delegates for CUCC. We don't want to monopolize the position! If you would like to expand your horizons, share ideas with other churches, see what other churches are doing, meet other really smart people in other congregations, and leaders of the Rocky Mountain Conference and Southeastern Association, talk to us, Pastor Rebecca, or Kathy Roman.

This is a great opportunity to share what our church is doing with the other 72 churches in the Conference. There are generally two "must meetings" a year, and there are always more educational and spiritual development programs throughout Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming if you are so inclined!

We are currently planning on attending the RMC Annual Celebration (Meeting) at La Foret in Colorado Springs June 4 to 6, approximately noon to noon. Last year it was in Grand Junction. CUCC will cover the registration expenses. Talk to us!

Linda & Ron Rak

"And the people stayed home. And read books, and listened, and rested, and exercised, and made art, and played games, and learned new ways of being, and were still. And listened more deeply. Some meditated, some prayed, some danced. Some met their shadows. And the people began to think differently. And the people healed. And, in the absence of people living in ignorant, dangerous, mindless, and heartless ways, the earth began to heal. And when the danger passed, and the people joined together again, they grieved their losses, and made new choices, and dreamed new images, and created new ways to live and heal the earth fully, as they had been healed."

CUCC Council Minutes
March 18, 2020
Meeting held via email

In lieu of official minutes, I, Moderator Kathy Roman, submit this summary of the e-mail vote taken on the action items and a summary of comments regarding the closing of the building.

Re: Approval of agreement with Judy Phelps to work through May of 2020.....unanimous
Re: Approval of paying Judy Phelps for 3/15 and 3/22.....unanimous

Comments re: closing (lockdown) of building:
Close bldg. to non-essential meetings; for AA/Al-Anon, post signs on doors for anyone that enters the building:
Don't enter if you are sick or have any symptoms of illness
Sanitize your hands before entering and after leaving
Cover up if you need to cough or sneeze
Maintain 5-6 ft distancing from each other
Close immediately; close in 2 week increments
[comment: As much as I hate to make unilateral decisions, I agreed with AA/Al-Anon's request to meet this week inasmuch as they would seem to need it the most. Rebecca will steer them to online resources.]
[comment: As of 3/23, the building has been closed to all group meetings
On Easter Activities: comments ranged from probably not to wait until it gets closer
[comment: Looks like the Chaffee County Public Health Department and the RMConference have pretty much taken those decisions out of our hands.]

Rebecca raised the question of keeping Lenny on payroll; he could be doing things on his "backburner" list. I will be seeking your input on that. There is also the question of allowing Judy to continue teaching piano in the building. [comment: As of 3/25 Judy has suspended her piano lessons at the church until further notice.]
